MANAGEMENT SYSTEM CERTIFICATION

INTRODUCTION

We offer approval to the three key management system standards for:

Quality - ISO 9001

Now one of the worlds leading management system standards, ISO 9001 gives confidence to customers that the businesses they trade with have consistent levels of quality and service.

Environmental Management - ISO 14001

Approval to ISO 14001 demonstrates a companys commitment to the environment and provides an assurance to the public, regulators and purchasers that its environmental policies and procedures are effective.

Health and Safety - ISO 45001

This is a specification that helps to fully integrate health and safety into company policies and working practices. It also signals to architects, clients, insurers and specifiers that a company takes its health and safety responsibilities seriously.

As well as providing approval to each individually, we offer an integrated service to companies wanting approval under two or more of these management system standards.

- Energy prices
- Water prices
- Concerns from the public about pollution, climate change and resources
- Legislation
- Environmental Taxes (climate change levy, landfill tax etc)
- Waste disposal
- Environmental impact assessment

ISO 14001 is a clear way of demonstrating a company's commitment to the green culture, and provides an assurance to the public, regulators and purchasers that the environmental policies and procedures the company puts into place help to:-

- Address public concerns
- Reduce risk of legal non-compliance (Environmental Protection Act 1990 and a whole host of others)
- Reduce costs and tax burden (Climate Change Levy and rebates)
- Improve reputation and marketability
- Manage environmental performance

Assessment and evaluation of environmental management systems can lead to products, systems and services that directly improve the quality of life through cleaner, safer and healthier environments.

Where companies do not require LPCB product or service certification, then all certificates are issued in the name of BRE Global Limited.

Health and Safety is a critically important issue for all businesses. It has moved beyond simple compliance with the law and is now part of the Corporate Social Responsibility agenda. Poor Health and Safety performance means loss of reputation, loss of license to trade, lost business and huge extra costs. Good performance reduces costs and gives you competitive edge.

Whether you are an employee, a manager or a business owner, you share a common goal - you don't want anyone to get hurt on the job. Improved productivity stems from ensuring people operate in workplaces that provide transparency and build trust throughout their operation and supply chain. In addition, responsible practices are becoming increasingly important to brands and reputations.

ISO 45001 is the new ISO standard for occupational health and safety (OH&S).

Why Certification to ISO 45001?

To survive in today's competitive global marketplace, organisations must proactively manage all types of risk to the business, and the issue of occupational health and safety is no exception. ISO 45001 will provide new impetus for occupational health and safety practices in organisations and will help improve safety for employees and contractors. This translates into additional opportunities for protecting and promoting workers health and performance, as well as a sustainable improvement of employee motivation.

It helps confirm that policies and procedures are in place to identify applicable legislation and regulatory requirements, and how these are implemented and maintained.

Through our work we have developed an in-depth industry knowledge in manufacturing and contracting activities for the construction, fire and security industries. Our certificates are maintained through regular assessment visits and are listed on www.RedBookLive.com.

The following companies have ISO 45001 with BRE Global.

HEALTH & SAFETY CERTIFICATION - LPCB

Approval of a Quality Management System demonstrates that a company's internal systems and processes are in place and operating as intended. It also measures performance in delivering products or services to an agreed standard.

Third party approval is an independent review of a particular area of a company's activities, which leads to improved processes and increased consumer confidence, and can help to reduce costs. Under the International Standard, ISO 9001, the certificate identifies which parts of a company's activities are covered, and must include design if this is part of its operation.

This scheme is for companies whose Quality Management Systems have been designed to meet the requirements of ISO 9001. For companies that already have a certificated Quality Management System assessed to ISO 9001, we offer approval of the factory production control processes applicable to the products we approve, and these are detailed in the entries listed where that option has been taken.

The entries in this section define the scope of activities that have been assessed under the management system.

Unlike our product approval schemes, which relate to specific products and services, Quality Management Systems approval can encompass the complete scope of a firm's activities at that particular address. However, it is important to understand that ISO 9001 does not provide an assurance to the user or specifiers that actual products or services conform to requirements, since no testing or cross checking of conformity to product or service standards is involved. Therefore, no marking of specific products or installations is permitted.

Where companies do not require LPCB product or service certification, all certificates are issued in the name of BRE Global Limited.
